

AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

1. (currently amended) ~~In a computer, a~~ A method of providing product information to a user, the method to be performed by computer-readable program code running in a computer, the method comprising:
detecting ~~the~~ an occurrence of a first window in the computer;
determining if the first window includes an offer to download a computer program a product offering;
identifying the computer program product; and displaying a second window in the computer, the second window including third party information about the computer program product.
2. (original) The method of claim 1 wherein the first window is launched by a web browser.
3. (canceled)
4. (currently amended) The method of claim 1 wherein the act of identifying the computer program product includes looking up a class identification (CLSID) ~~CLSID~~ of the computer program product.
5. (currently amended) The method of claim 1 wherein the act of identifying the ~~product~~ computer program includes consulting a product list.
6. (currently amended) The method of claim 5 wherein the product list is updateable by downloading a new product list from a remote computer to the computer.
7. (currently amended) A computer memory comprising:
a listener, the listener including computer-readable program code for detecting the opening of a new window;
a product list, the product list including a list of computer programs and a description of each of the computer programs, the description of each of the computer programs comprising third-party information that helps users decide whether they should install a computer program being offered for download;
a window analyzer, the window analyzer including computer-readable program code for detecting whether a the new window is offering a computer program listed in the product list for download of a certain type;
~~a product list, the product list including a set of product identifiers and corresponding product descriptions; and~~
a user interface manager, the user interface manager including computer-readable program code for displaying a product description third party information about the computer program offered in the new window and listed in the product list.
8. (canceled)